

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A pants-type disposable diaper including an absorbent main body and a diaper main body having a front abdomen portion, a back portion, and leg hole sections which are formed on both sides of a crotch portion between the front abdomen portion and the back portion, wherein the diaper main body is provided with a display part which displays identification information including a size of the diaper main body and a front or back side of the diaper main body, so as to allow the display part to be visible from a side position of each of diaper main bodies, when two or more diaper main bodies are stacked on one another so that the front abdomen portion of one diaper main body is overlapped with the back portion of another diaper main body.